WHY PRESERVATION?

CEMETERIES ARE COMMUNITIES

- Events of local or personal interest are documented in cemeteries
- Contain genealogical information not recorded elsewhere
- Document every day lives

Photograph attached to tombstone of
Hilda McClellan (1938-1976),
Mount Auburn Cemetery, Baltimore.

WHERE TO START?

CHALLENGES

Access & Safety

GOALS

1. Identify burials

OBITUARY

Addison White departed this life on March 17, 1912 at his late residence, 1114 Etting street, after a short illness. He was the beloved husband of Maggie White. His funeral was held from the above address on Tuesday, March 19, 1912 at 2 p. m. Rev. J. A. Holmes officiated. The deceased was a member of the Masons and Wise Men Lodges.

He was also a faithful servant for 23 years in the late Ex-Mayor Latrobe's family up until his death. Interment in Mount Auburn Cemetery.

RECONCILING DISCREPANCIES

Legend

- Indicates entries where the grave marker has been located in the cemetery.
- Indicates removals from the cemetery.
- Indicates entries where a tombstone has not been located and a reference to burial in the cemetery cannot be confirmed by a combination of sources (i.e. death certificate, cemetery records, obituary, etc.).
- Indicates entries where a reference to burial in the cemetery (usually an obituary) is proven erroneous by other records.
